Yes, please contact [redacted] to request permission to use their photo of the turf field cross-section- it's great!! For [redacted], both the bagging photo and the shredded tires on conveyor belt are theirs? Please contact them and let them know we will blur the logo. Were you able to ask about the manner in which we have to cite the photo caption (do we have to say, courtesy of [redacted] hinting at the facility name)?

Just got off the phone with Eric. This is what he informed me of.

- <!--[if !supportLists]--><![endif]-->We only need to do "consent forms" for photos if there are individuals' likenesses in the photos. The test to confirm if that is if they are recognizable by family members. I believe that the person in the photo below would not be recognizable by a family member, so we need not worry about this form.

- <!--[if !supportLists]--><![endif]-->For the photos of the [redacted] facility he advised us contact to them and ask if it is OK to use the photos in case the photos are of proprietary technology.

<image012.png><image014.jpg>

- <!--[if !supportLists]--><![endif]-->We do not need a consent form for the photos of the field because they consist of pictures of property and we are not using them for commercial use. We do not need forms for pictures of property.

<image002.png><image008.png>

- <!--[if !supportLists]--><![endif]-->We will need to blur or remove the company logos in the [redacted] bagging photo.

<image005.png>

- <!--[if !supportLists]--><![endif]-->We don't need permission for photos from the public domain in the case of the cross section of a tire from NHTSA.

Instead of using RMA's graphic <image015.jpg> use NHST's. <image016.jpg>

- <!--[if !supportLists]--><![endif]-->Photos taken from a website need a copyright release (which can consist of email correspondence). We will just need to make sure the website owners own the copyright of the photo/graphic we are using (in the case of the cross-section of a turf field).

Or we could use this from the [redacted] <image018.jpg>

Would you like me to contact [redacted] and [redacted] to make sure it is OK to use their photos?

Hi Eric,

I just called and left a message for you on your voicemail. I'm working OLEM and we are drafting a report with ORD that will be posted up on the web in a month or so. We wanted to include some photos that we took and have questions about the License Agreement and Consent Forms. We saw the documents on the intranet site [redacted] but have a few additional clarifying questions. Do you have time for a quick call today to discuss?

Thank you,
